GERMAN POSITION NOW PREVENTS FLANK MOVES

Although the Germans have failed to break the allied line and have themselves given ground, they are now in a better position, having a front which stretches from the Slovak frontier to Antwerp and Dutch territory so that there are no flanks which the allies can turn.

The allies can attempt to break the line, however, and this is believed to be what they are trying to do on the Belgian frontier.

Of the fighting in northern Belgium, the French communication simply says that German troops coming from Antwerp are marching toward the west district. The opposition offered to this advance was not very serious and apparently was intended only to delay it.

The Germans have occupied Bruges and probably at present are near Ostend. Their main force is believed, however, to have proceeded southward to assist in the attempt of the Germans to establish themselves on the world the desperation to which the whole Slavic population under Austria had been reduced.

"After the Slavs had tried by every means, legal and illegal, to obtain justice and recognition of their rights," Prinzpik said, "Austria continued to trample on their nationality, language, culture, religion and everything which the Slav nation as a whole, or families, as individuals considered most sacred, and so the Slavs at last resorted to the use of the weapons at its disposal."

"The moment arrived when rebellion was a duty, when the only thing possible was to protect by striking at the individual who incarnated such a despotic, retrograde and cruel organization," Prinzpik declared.

The pits now grew eloquent as he proceeded to declare that he was no more a criminal than these Hungarians, Italians, Poles or Irishmen "who, because of the same distressing conditions in their countries during the Nineteenth century followed Kossuth, Mazzini, Miksaivski and Daniel O'Connell in attacking tyrants and tyrannies, regardless of the means they used."

CONSUMERS APPLY—A number of inquiries about the "farm-to-the-table" service of the parcel post have been received by the postoffice officials from consumers in this city. There has been a dearth of applicants from the producers class, and any farmer or rancher who is interested in obtaining customers in Colorado Springs is asked to leave his name and data as to the produce he has to sell at the postoffice.

MONEY NEEDED—Twenty-three dollars is needed by the Associated Charities to complete the sum of $50, necessary to purchase a ticket and birth for a stranded artist in this city to his home in New York city. A sum of $27 has already been collected by the association. The boy is a Bohemian and ill at a hospital. He arrived here several days ago without funds. His brothers are fighting the Austrian army and he cannot get help. Arrangements have been made by the Associated Charities for his admission to the city hospital in New York.

Colorado City Out to Hear Miss Doris Grill Administration
Miss Doris Stevens talked to a crowd of 200 people yesterday afternoon at the corner of Colorado avenue and Fifth street, Colorado City, and found the most enthusiasm for her campaign against Congressman Seldombridge and Senator Thomas of any meeting since she came to Colorado Springs.
"Colorado City must be a strong anti-democratic town," Miss Stevens said last night. "We had a dandy crowd and those people are with us and against Seldombridge and Thomas. Many women joined the Congressional union, fought 'Suffragists' and helped with the collection," she added.
This morning at 10:30 o'clock a meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Florence Aldrich, 1304 Wood avenue.

BAUER A PIANIST WITH A MESSAGE, SAYS SCHMIDT

Opening of Musical Club's Artist Course One of Strongest Attractions Given Here

By WILHELM SCHMIDT.

Seldom, if ever, has the Colorado Springs Musical club offered so strong an attraction for the opening concert of its regular artist series as that given at the Burns theater last evening when Harold Bauer and Oscar Seagle held the close attention of a representative musical audience during two hours of whole-some music-making.

The achievements of Bauer, who is first and foremost a pianist with a message, were of such a superior order as to stand out for all time in bold relief as an original, tangible creation—a work of art requiring no artificial, no-fabricating touches of brush or chisel, and which may safely be taken into the practice room as a model by those seeking like honor in the pianistic field.

Pianists of note, who have a habit of abusing their instruments, as well as their art, by an excessive employment of physical energy or "temperament," and also those who merely radiate technical finish and brilliancy, plead so often for our approval that the finely proportioned performance of a Bauer is quite naturally given a warm welcome by the tried connoisseur. Such performances come as a refreshing draught and deserve to be lauded only with superlatives.

Bauer is one of the few pianists before the public today who are necessary to the preservation of good pianism. His pianistic personality and authoritative manner combined with healthy sentiment, refinement and poetic feeling, constitute the chief elements of charm that move his listeners to a response. He has at his command a thoroughly reliable technique developed to a high degree of finish, a crisp, vital touch, capable of producing tones of many colors from the most delicate pianissimo to its extreme opposite, and possesses moreover, a fine sense of rhythm and a lively imagination. He is thus amply equipped to vary his playing, as was the case at this concert, by a free employment of nuances and masterful rubato effects.

His grasp of the Beethoven Sonata, Op. 57 (Appassionata), musically and technically, disclosed a deep, rugged personality, tempered by a fine intellect and artistic taste. It was an admirable reproduction of the work, and vividly brought before us the spirit and purposes of the composer. Schumann's beautiful "Papillons" was likewise given with every regard to the fitting character of the work. Nowhere were the pianist's imagination and brilliant technique of spirit better revealed. Whereas Liszt's music is often regarded as cold polished and brilliant, Bauer nevertheless succeeded last evening in giving his audience a thoroughly agreeable performance of the 15th Rhapsody. He was given a deserved ovation after each of his appearances.

Seagle's contributions were equally applauded by the enthralled audience. The baritone gave an excellent account of himself in his first group of songs, which included "Non più Andrai" from "Marriage of Figaro," and "Enfant si Jeanne" by Debussy. In these two numbers the full power and warmth of the singer's voice were revealed. His intelligent employment of the vocal voice, especially on the extreme upper tones in forte, which generally prove so ungovernable in the case of baritone, was a feature of his singing deserving of hearty commendation. His treatment of the voice in the succeeding group of songs was equally satisfying from the standpoint of the lover of bel canto. In his encore, the ever-popular "Prologue" from "Pagliacci," he was able to inject ardor and intensity without sacrificing musical continuity or tonal balance, which is an art greatly to be encouraged. A pianissimo, produced without effort and in which the natural richness of his voice is preserved, is one of Seagle's most serviceable attributes. He should be cautioned against a too-extravagant use of it, however, as was the case in his second song.

Mr. Seagle is fortunate in the possession of a very able and conscientious accompanist in Mr. Frank Bibb.

Have Let Harvard Out or Difficult Position, Says Hugo Munsterberg

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 15.—I feel that I have let Harvard college out of a difficult position by offering my resignation, said Professor Hugo Munsterberg tonight in discussing his tender of withdrawal from the head of the department of psychology. His action followed a notification by Maj. Clarence Wiener of London that he would cancel a legacy of $10,000,000 to the college unless the famous psychologist was separated from the institution.

Professor Munsterberg would not discuss the reasons which prompted Major Wiener's action. In a postcard to Dan Briggs of Harvard, Major Wiener said he objected to Professor Munsterberg's pro-German utterances. Both Major Wiener's attitude and Professor Munsterberg's resignation probably will be taken up for action at the next meeting of the Harvard corporation, October 26.

American Bankers Ass'n Asks Change in Banking System

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 15.—The American Bankers association today decided to send a committee to Washington to urge upon the federal reserve board changes which it contends would make membership in the new banking system more attractive to state institutions.

Examination of applicants by regional bank officials and permission to continue business along present lines are the main proposals. Several speakers during the convention urged that state banks defer entering the reserve system until changes were made in the law.

The convention came to a close tonight after the election of officers and adoption of a resolution calling upon the interstate commerce commission to grant rate increases sought by the railroads.

Unless railroad and transportation interests the resolution said could be made prosperous and confident in the stability of their securities restored and maintained, no permanent relief from existing conditions can be expected.

The new officers of the association are William A. Law of Philadelphia, president and James K. Lynch of San Francisco vice president. Other officials were re-elected. Seattle was chosen for the 1915 convention city.

SOUTHERN SENATORS UNABLE TO RETARD PROGRESS TAX BILL

After Vote Is Deferred They Try to Divert Discussion to Question

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Despite efforts of southern senators to divert discussion to cotton and let legislation the senate made material progress today on the war revenue bill. Many important sections were agreed to after the proposed amendment authorizing a $250,000,000 bond issue to aid cotton producers had been debated and a vote deferred.

The senate agreed to strike out the tax on prophylactic medicines, originally proposed by the senate committee and revised the administrative sections of the bill to accord with this amendment. The revised section taxing the shipment of newspapers was agreed to and an amendment limited exempting from the stamp taxes memorandum of agreements under which stock certificates are deposited as collateral for loans.

Two new amendments were presented, but consideration went over until tomorrow. They dealt with the tobacco and wine schedule. The wine, with the cotton controversy, was the most important proposal still pending when the senate recessed tonight.

The amendment relating to the shipment of newspapers provides that a bill of lading be required on express and freight shipments and that all transfers in any single train or other conveyance should be considered as one shipment. Publishers to issue monthly statements as to such shipments and to attach necessary stamps to these statements. The amendment exempts from tax newspapers shipped within the county of publication.

Copper Industry Asks Relief

Under a new revision of the tobacco section, tobacco manufacturers making 100,000 pounds of tobacco a year would pay $6, the tax being graduated up to $24.98 on annual sales exceeding 20,000,000 pounds. Cigar manufacturers selling 100,000 cigars would pay $3, while those selling 400,000 or more would pay $24.98. Manufacturers selling 1,000,000 cigarettes would be taxed $12, and sales exceeding 100,000,000 $24.98.

The wine section, as proposed by the committee, would tax all still wines 4 cents a gallon and an additional would tax the grape brandy used in the fortification of sweet wines 35 cents a gallon. The committee also wrote into the wine schedule taxes of 25 cents a quart on champagne, 10 cents a quart on carbonated wines and 24 cents a gallon on cordials.

The cotton controversy occupied most of the day. Senators Smith of Georgia and Sheppard of Texas, advocating the proposed bond issue. Amendments embodying similar relief measures for the copper industry and the cereal farmers of the country were presented by Senators Smoot and McCumber.

The house at the instance of Majority Leader Underwood agreed that members of that body who could remain next week might go home as the consideration of the war tax bill upon its return from the senate was the only work unfinished.

The house will adjourn tomorrow until Monday.

The house rules committee fails to over cotton legislation again today but took no action.

Refugees Who Flew From Warsaw Return

LONDON, Oct. 15. 4 a m.—A Reuters dispatch from Petrograd says:

Refugees who fled from Warsaw at the approach of the Germans are returning. The Russians having beaten back the German advance, on 15th through the excellent work of the military.

Fighting is now in progress 30 miles from Warsaw. The town of Grodzisk has been captured by the Germans. It has been retaken by the Russians. The fighting a few days ago was within seven miles of Warsaw.

The Germans are making excellent use of aeroplanes which signal the use of black steamers whenever they pass over Russian batteries. The fighting line of the opposing forces extends 160 miles from north of Warsaw to a point due south of Przemyel. Half of Galicia is occupied by the Russians.

ATTEMPT MADE TO BURN BIG AUSTRIAN DOCKYARD

Dreadnaught Almost Completed, and Six Torpedo Boat Destroyers, Are Badly Damaged

ROME (via Paris), Oct. 15.—11 54 p m.—Dispatches received here today from Trieste, say the attempt to burn the dockyard of Montalcono, 16 miles northwest of Trieste, the principal naval shipyard of Austria, has caused a deep impression among the authorities as it is considered proof that there exists daring and powerful internal enemies.

The evidence shows that the attempt was especially directed against a dreadnaught which is almost completed and for whose launching arrangements had been made for next Sunday. The vessel was badly damaged, and the fire also caused serious damage to six torpedo boat destroyers which were in course of construction.

The police of Trieste have arrested several of the 8,000 workmen of the dockyard, and a strict watch is being kept over others.

Funeral of King Charles Is Held

BUCHAREST, via London, Oct. 15.—4 30 a m.—The funeral of King Charles of Roumania was held here yesterday morning, and later in the day the body was placed in a crypt in the cathedral at Curtea de Arges, one of the ancient capitals of Wallachia.

The last benediction was pronounced over the body early in the morning. The service for the dead in the orthodox church followed and at its conclusion the body of the late king was placed on a gun carriage drawn by six horses.

A salute of 101 guns was fired and all the church bells in Bucharest tolled, while the funeral procession, under military escort passed through the densely crowded streets to the railway station. Two special trains carried the funeral party to Curtea de Arges, where the cortege again formed and proceeded to the ancient cathedral, where the body was entombed.

Funeral services were held simultaneously in all the churches in the kingdom. More than 80,000 persons viewed the body of King Charles while it lay in state in the palace here.

To Send Christmas Present to Every Soldier and Sailor

LONDON, Oct. 15.—7 35 p m.—Princess Mary has issued an appeal in which she says:

"I want you all to help me send a Christmas present from the whole nation to every sailor afloat and every soldier at the front. On Christmas eve, when, like the shepherds of old, they keep their watch doubtless their thoughts will turn to home and loved ones left behind. Perhaps, too, they will recall the days when, as children themselves, they were wont to hang up their stockings, wondering what the morrow had in store."

Military Convention Supreme in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 15.—All the military chieftains, including Francisco Villa, Emiliano Zapata, and Venustiano Carranza, are now subject to the orders of the Aguascalientes convention, which today, after a stormy secret session, voted itself the supreme power of the land. The delegates took oath to abide by the majority vote on all questions including the form of government and presidential succession.

ment that shall prevail will be decided at a session to be held October 30, when a full Zapata delegation numbering 20 men will be present.

Prominent delegates to the conference say the question of further civil strife in Mexico City has been definitely decided and that peace is assured. A majority of the delegates lean toward a commission form of government until general elections can be held, though many of them favor Antonio J. Villareal for the provisional presidency.

Under the new arrangement, General Carranza can be a candidate for the presidency in the general elections.

GENERAL BOTHA TAKES FIELD AGAINST MARITZ

Premier of Union of South Africa
Holds Troops to Quell Rebellion
In North-West

CAPE TOWN, via London, Oct. 15. 10.50 p. m.—As a result of Colonel Maritz' rebellion in the northwest of the Cape province, Gen. Louis Botha, premier of the Union of South Africa and commander of the troops of the union, is taking the field earlier than he originally intended. General Botha is placing himself at the head of several strong Dutch commands, organized on the old burgher line, which are affiliated with regiments trained by the union defense force.

Commandants, field cornets and burghers who served under General Botha in the South African war are rallying to his call, irrespective of their political feeling, to fight alongside the English in defense of the empire against which they were in arms 12 years ago. This fact has had a marked effect on wavering, who are now flocking to General Botha's standard. The other rebels within the union, having openly declared themselves, the government considers itself not obliged to deal gently with them out of consideration for certain Dutch people, who even though they are not strong supporters of the government, are said to have drawn the line at rebellion.

The government also is adopting stern measures by arresting prominent men who are suspected of sowing sedition, charging them with high treason.

General Hertzog, who has been one of General Botha's most bitter opponents, has placed his services at the disposal of the premier.

forces have arrived and have been assigned to their places so that a rapid development may be expected.

The newly arrived German troops are thought to have come directly from Germany, and are composed of second and third reserves, who need a period of pulling together before going to the front.

The allied commanders expect the Germans to deliver another powerful blow looking to the achievement of their one great objective—Paris. But this is awaited with confidence in the power of the allied armies to respond with a vigorous counter blow.

VILLAREAL BEST POSTED MAN ON LAND QUESTIONS

Has Been Engaged for Months in Perfecting Plans for Distribution of Estates Among Poor

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 15.—Gen. Antonio Villareal mentioned in dispatches as presiding officer of the peace conference at Aguas Calientes, and also as a compromise candidate to succeed Carranza, helped Ricardo Flores Magón and other Mexican Socialists in this city to foment a revolt against Porfirio Diaz before Francisco Madero took the field. As a result of that agitation, four or five Mexicans spent some time in a federal penitentiary for violation of American neutrality.

Villareal was thus identified today by Adolfo Carrillo, Carranza's representative here.

With Magón, Villareal was an editor of Regeneración, a Mexican revolutionary paper in Los Angeles. Magón's partisans fanned a revolt in Lower California, and planned a socialistic commonwealth there in 1911.

After the failure of this project Villareal became a street railway laborer here, but subsequently joined Madero and was sent as the Mexican chief agent to Barcelona, Spain.

"Villareal is now governor of Nuevo Leon," said Carrillo. He is a radical, but of a practical turn of mind, and made president of Mexico he undoubtedly would improve the condition of the people to high class he belongs.

Land and Liberty was the motto of Regeneración under the editorial guidance of Villareal and the Magóns.

General Villareal is regarded as perhaps the best-posted authority among the Constitutionalists upon the agrarian problems of that country. With Venustiano Carranza, acting minister of communication, and others he has been engaged for months in perfecting plans for the sale or distribution of the large landed estates of Mexico among the poorer classes.

General Villareal also is known as a strong anticlerical and has advocated a wide reform within the Catholic church in Mexico. He vigorously opposed the presence of foreign-born priests in Mexico, and as governor of Nuevo Leon was the first of the Constitutionalists to promulgate strict rules for the conduct of the church within its territory.

government and the participating bankers. Festus J. Wade and George W. Simmons, the St. Louis bankers, who have taken a leading part in pushing the scheme, had a long conference today with Secretary McAdoo and later with the board.

Conditions imposed by the New York bank on their contributions were believed tonight to form one obstacle to an immediate acceptance of the plan. They propose turning their quota over to the reserve board to be loaned to national loan associations or to federal reserve banks.

The question was raised in the board meeting today whether currency associations, created under the Vreeland-Aldrich act, are clothed with legal power to handle the fund. Further efforts will be made to straighten out these difficulties, and the New York bankers probably will be consulted.

BELGIANS REFUSE TO RETURN TO ANTWERP

LONDON, Oct. 15.—A m.—The Daily Telegraph's Rotterdam correspondent says "Efforts to induce Belgian refugees to return to Antwerp are meeting with meager success. The Dutch authorities are apprehensive of serious outbreaks of disease among the refugees. Already several cases of scarlet fever have been reported."

FOREIGN TRADE SHOWS STEADY IMPROVEMENT

President Wilson Tells Callers Demand for American Goods Increasing

Figures Given Out

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The foreign trade of the United States shows slow, but steady improvement. In the opinion of President Wilson, who told callers today he had learned through letters and personal talks that the demand for American goods abroad has shown a marked increase recently.

Foreign trade for September showed marked recovery from the extremely low levels reached in August, according to preliminary figures given out today by the department of commerce. These showed September imports to have been $9,498,777 more than in August, while exports increased $4,821,296.

Imports last month totaled $189,044,287 compared with $171,064,544 in September, 1913, and $144,519,468 for September, 1912. Export figures are September, 1914, $169,188,790; 1913, $216,240,091; 1912, $199,478,082.

Gold imports amounted to $2,761,590, as against $4,626,748 for September of last year. Gold exports were $21,887,102, compared with $498,087 for September, 1913.

The balance of trade again shifted to the export side in September, exceeding imports by $16,844,523, as against an excess of imports amounting to $19,400,336 in August.

The imports into and the exports from the port of New York for the weeks ending October 3 and 10, 1914, were as follows:

Imports October 3, $15,515,011; October 10, $18,346,168. Exports October 3, $13,270,885; October 10, $17,969,983. Exports for the week ending October 4, 1914, $14,655,468 and for the week ending October 11, 1914, $13,121,938.

GREAT BATTLES IN EAST AND WEST REACH HEIGHT

arrangements with the German authorities for their return. The Germans, however, are unable to guarantee the safety of the innocent should any of the population fire upon or otherwise interfere with the German troops.

The report comes today from Basel, through Rome, that the French have recaptured the towns of Altkirch and Muelhausen, in Alsace, but if this were so it probably would have been mentioned in the French official statement.

Of the big battle in Poland, the Russian official report says there is no change to record. Rome is again responsible for the report that the Russians have defeated the Germans south of Warsaw, but this is believed to refer to the fighting in which the Russians yesterday claimed to have pressed the Germans back.

RUSSIANS STILL OCCUPY LEMBERG; LITTLE FIGHTING

There has been more fighting south of Przemyśl in Galicia, on the Strzambor-Midzka line, which disposes of the report that Lemberg has been evacuated by the Russians and also throws doubt on another report that Przemyśl has been relieved.

The Austrians say they are attacking the Russians in this position, while the Russian report claims victory over the Austrians from whom, it says, 10 Austrians captured seven officers, 500 men and several machine guns.

In East Prussia, the Russians say, there is no change in the situation. The Germans, according to Berlin newspapers, have recaptured Lyck, and for military reasons have moved the civilians out of Goldap, which is in the center of the region where the Russians are advancing.

Austria, which, next to Hungary, is said to have received the hardest knocks of the war, has just fired another blow in the arm & done but first to new battleship and several destroyers which were about completed at Montecarlo. This fire was incendiary and shows to what lengths Austria's infernal enemies will go to cripple her. The battleship was to have been launched Sunday with imposing ceremonies.

BRITISH CRUISER CAPTURES GERMAN SUPPLY SHIPS

The British cruiser Yarmouth has made an important capture in seizing the steamers Markomannia and Pontoporus, which have been acting as supply ships for the German cruiser Emden. The London has not been heard from since she sank a dozen British steamers in East Indian waters. The Markomannia, which was taken at Hamburg-American line, was taken and sunk in the neighborhood of Sumatra. The Pontoporus, which is a Greek steamer was taken to port.

The Australians also have helped cripple the German cruisers in the Pacific by the seizure of the German ship Comet, with a wireless station aboard, which was to be utilized to keep in touch with them.

The movements of the Turkish fleet, which has been strengthened by the former German cruiser Goeben and Breslau and which has been cruising in the Black Sea, has led to the suspicion that it is about to attack the Russian fleet. Already firing has been heard off K. I. I. It was reported, however, that Turkey has hinted that, unless more money is forthcoming she will be compelled to demobilize her army. Turkey usually raised funds in France and England.

NOT WAR OF GOVERNMENTS BUT OF NATIONS, RACES

Fundamental interests involved may result in its continuance for years, says Italian paper.

ROME, Oct. 15.—3.06 p. m.—The Tribune, in an article in which the situation is reviewed, says that the present war cannot be compared with that of 1866 or 1870, and that it is illusory to think that it will last only three, six or nine months.

"This is not a war of governments," says the paper, "but of nations, races. The fundamental interests involved, similar to those of the Napoleonic war, may result in its continuance for a year or years. Therefore, Italy's ver-trality is a transitory condition, due to circumstances which may change at any moment.

"Therefore, it is thus necessary for military, economic and diplomatic preparations on the part of the government and moral political preparation on the part of the public."

"The future decisions of Italy will be taken with a view to the absolute exclusion from Italian interests of outside influences and impractical ideal."

ryan Will Be Here
Morning of Oct. 22

The official itinerary of William Jennings Bryan, who is to be one of the leading lights of the Democratic campaign in Colorado, was made public yesterday.
Bryan's first stop in Colorado will be at Holly, at 3:27 p. m., October 21, at which time he will make a five-minute speech and also at Lamar and Las Animas.
At La Junta, where he arrives at 10 p. m., is scheduled for a 10-minute talk, with five-minute talks at Ky Ford and Manzanola. The train goes to Pueblo at 8:40 p. m., where meeting will be held that night.
Arriving Pueblo at 9:15 a. m., October 22, the secretary of state reaches Colorado Springs at 9:15 a. m. He speaks and leaves at 11:35 a. m., speaking five minutes at Castle Rock and leaving and arriving in Denver at 1 p. m. The proposed trip into northern Colorado has been called off as terminating his Colorado engagements at the auditorium in Denver the night of October 22.

ryful Anticipation of Motherhood

There is apt to be a latent apprehension of distress to mark the complete joy of exultation. But this is quite overcome by the advice of the doctor to use "Mother's Friend." This is an external application designed to soothe the muscles and to turn so relieve the pressure exerted on the nerves, that the state upon the cords and ligaments is not accompanied by those severe judgments by the fact that "Mother's Friend" has been in continual use since grandmother's earlier years and is in throughout the United States. It is easily inferred that it is something that women gladly recommend.

ALL FRANCE RALLIES TO COLORS, SAYS M'GARRY
Paris Cleared of Able Bodied Men Day After Troops Are Ordered Out to Fight Germans

An idea of the response following the call to arms in Paris was given yesterday by Judge H. McGarry, vice president of the Golden Cycle company, who was in Paris when war was declared, and for several weeks afterward.
"The way Paris was cleared of its able-bodied men in response to the call to arms was wonderful," said Mr. McGarry yesterday. "I arrived in Paris on a Saturday and made an appointment with a banker. Monday morning, his bank was closed, and I only had time to shake hands with him before he left with his regiment for the front."
"It was the same thing all over the city. Banks and other financial and business houses were closed, and every man able to bear arms joined his regiment. Wealth or birth made no difference, for every man belonged to some military company, and had to respond. The French will make a different showing from what they did in 1870, for the reason that no man has been shirking his military duty in recent years. Prior to 1870 military service was unpopular, and everyone who could afford to do so hired a substitute. After the Franco-Prussian war this system was prohibited, and every man had to take his turn at military drill. The people are united on the subject, and France will prove a hard enemy to conquer."

Arterberry Case to Go to Jury Today
Evidence in the case of Willard R. Arterberry against the Colorado Springs & Interurban Railway company was concluded yesterday afternoon in the district court, and Judge J. W. Sheaffer's instructions to the jury will be read this morning. The plaintiff's motion for a directed verdict was denied yesterday by Judge Sheaffer.

Arterberry is suing for $5,000 for the death of his wife and for $20,290 for his own injuries. The accident, in which Mrs. Arterberry met her death, occurred the night of August 23, 1913. Mr. and Mrs. Arterberry were on a westbound car a block west of Adams crossing and, while walking back to Adams crossing over the company's right of way, were struck by an eastbound car. Mrs. Arterberry was killed and her husband sustained serious injuries.

BISHOP MCCONNELL AT COLLEGE VESPERS SUNDAY
Bishop Francis J. McConnell, bishop of the Colorado conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, will preach the sermon at the Colorado college vesper service Sunday at 8 o'clock, in Perkins hall. The choir, under the direction of Mrs. John Speed Tucker, will render the anthem, "Ye That Stand in the House of the Lord."

FIRST SOUND-TO-GULF TRAIN MOVES SUNDAY
The first train from Denver to Billings, Mont., over the connecting link of the Colorado & Southern railroad between Gilchrist, Tex., and Seattle, Wash., will be run Sunday, according to advices received yesterday by the local office. The road has just been constructed, and marks the completion of the through Sound-to-Gulf railroad. Through service will be maintained during the winter, and the company expects to have everything in readiness for next summer's traffic. The schedule between Denver and Billings will have a business man's day, the train arriving at 5 o'clock in the morning instead of 3:30 in the afternoon, as formerly.

AT THE END OF THE GREAT WAR
Dr. James R. Day, Chancellor of Syracuse University, in Leslie's.
The final issue is plain enough. When Great Britain undertook the cause of her allies, Belgium and France, the defeat of Germany became certain and beyond question. Germany might win some battles, but she would not win the last one. With Russia closing in from the east, it became madness for Germany to fire a shot. It meant that Germany would lose her colonies, her commerce, her industries and the flower of her young manhood, and that the reigning dynasty would lose its throne. Great Britain has the greatest territorial extent, the greatest population, the greatest taxable wealth and the greatest income of any nation. The result will be the return of Lorraine and Alsace to France, the repair of all damages and the payment of expenses to Belgium, a great war indemnity to Great Britain, France and Russia, and a great revolution in Germany that will send William II to join Napoleon III. Emperors and kings will not make war any more. This is the last war among great Christian nations for the arbitrage of contentions among rulers. War and peace will be placed in the hands of the people, who will rule with constitutions, written or unwritten, respected by their rulers. The kings that remain will be of the harmless and helpful character of the king of England. This hope is the only thing with which we can justify this terrible war and get any comfort from it. There should be only one throne in the world, and that is the throne of God. No man ever was great enough to rule other men.

When the work of this great war is consummated in the overthrow of the absolutism of militarism at its only source of danger, we shall emerge into a millennial epoch—the beginning of a new creation.

CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED
Look, Mother! If tongue is coated, give "California Syrup of Figs"

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.
When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.
Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company," Adv.

WEST BETTER OFF THAN EAST, SAYS J. S. DILL
Looks for Speedy Revival of Local Industries; George B. Tripp Promoted to New York Office

A revival in the manufacturing industries of El Paso county is looked for in a short time by J. S. Dill, vice president of the United Gas and Electric corporation of New York, who is in town on a business trip. The eastern concern is the holding company for the Colorado Springs Light, Heat and Power company. Business conditions in the United States have been upset by the war, according to Mr. Dill, but they will soon adjust themselves to the situation. He is satisfied with local conditions, and said that the west was in a far better condition than the east in the commercial world.
George B. Tripp, formerly of this city, and general manager of the company in Harrisburg, Pa., is now in the head office of the United company in New York. When Mr. Tripp resigned as president of the Harrisburg chamber of commerce recently he was given a banquet and presented with a silver dining set.

BARBECUE AND DANCE AT RAMAH, OCT 24
The citizens of Ramah will hold their annual barbecue and dance, October 24, and invitations to take part in the celebration have been received by many business and professional men of this city. The Rock Island is planning to run a special train, and a party is being organized in Colorado Springs by Ira B. Kutch to attend the celebration. Mr. Kutch is living in Colorado Springs while the campaign is on, and is looking after his interests as Democratic candidate for county commissioner.

EASTERN COLORADO FARMS HAVE RETURNED BIG CROP
W. M. Lauck Finds Farmers Satisfied With Yield; Winter Pastures Good and Silos Are Filled

Farmers and ranchers in eastern Colorado have never been so prosperous as this year. The harvest is well advanced and the crops are in splendid condition, according to County Agriculturalist W. M. Lauck, who returned yesterday from a week's trip through El Paso, Lincoln, Crowley, Kiowa and Pueblo counties. Lauck has been making a selection of pure black amber cane seed, and a hill selection of seed potatoes on Bald mountain. The selected seeds will be given to farmers in El Paso county.
"The late fall has made it possible for the farmer to get everything in good shape," he said. "There is an abundance of winter pasture and the grasses in the eastern section have ripened well. The silos are filled with winter feed, and it looks good for the farmers this season. Their stock is in good condition and I have not heard a single complaint of the score of poor markets."

Demand for Selected Seed.
The county agent hopes to work up interest in dry-land seeds in El Paso county to supply the increasing demand. "We are beyond the experimental stage," he said yesterday. "The farmers know that selected seeds bring better crops, with the result that the demand is greater than the supply at present." Mr. Lauck will go to the El Paso basin district today to make a field selection of dwarf milo, as the result of last year's success in that line. In 1913 he brought 50 pounds of hand-selected seed into El Paso county, which was given out in five-pound lots to the farmers. With few exceptions the seed gave a big yield of dwarf milo.

Mr. Lauck covered about 350 miles by automobile on his trip, and declares that the El Paso county roads are by far the best he traveled over.

News of the "farm-to-table" service of the parcel post, which has just been instituted here, has not reached the farmers in the outlying districts, according to Mr. Lauck. He will confer with Postmaster Ward this morning as to the best way to get them interested.

A letter sent out by Secretary Hattenback of the Colorado Retail Merchants association, to the local secretary, says: "There has been some misunderstanding in regard to the legal standards of baking powder, and we have tried to clear this matter up by having the columns of the Merchants' News, both for the benefit of the various honorable baking powder manufacturers and for the information and protection of our members. We find, upon good authority, that baking powder containing white of egg is entirely within the law, and that retail grocers having such baking powder upon their shelves need have no fear of worry. This is not contrary to law, as the law only demands that baking powder should be pure, and egg albumen has been proven to be an ingredient that is so." It is not our intention to go into the question of the advantages one way or the other of the ingredients of baking powder, but simply to inform our members that they are perfectly safe in handling any baking powder that contains pure ingredients of any nature. I would respectfully request that you inform your members of the true facts in the baking powder controversy, for their own self-protection. Very truly yours, LEON HATTENBACK, Secretary.

Administration Hasn't Changed Its Policy Toward Foreign Loans

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—While high administration officials stated today that loans to belligerent countries by private individuals in the United States were in the same class as munitions of war and other classes of contraband trade which the American government was neither legally able nor obligated by international law to prohibit, it became known at the White House that the administration policy toward foreign loans had undergone no change.
Discussion of the subject was revived in official quarters through the issuance by Acting Secretary Lansing of the state department yesterday, with the approval of the president, of a statement setting forth that no act of congress nor obligation of international law made it incumbent on the government to prevent the shipment of munitions of war or any other commercial transactions of a contraband character. Informal inquiries then were made of administration officials as to their attitude on loans. It was made plain that loans were in the same category with other commercial transactions, but that the policy of the American government—that loans to belligerents are "inconsistent with the true spirit of neutrality"—had not been changed since it was expressed last August.

English Fear Zeppelins? Australian Says No
Cabinet Officer Here Tells of Preparedness
A. J. Thynne of Queensland Says That America Could Profit From His Nation's Plan of Preparing Young Men for War

An invasion of England by Zeppelin aircraft is a German myth that will never be realized, according to the Hon. A. J. Thynne of Queensland, Australia, who is stopping at the Antlers hotel. Mr. Thynne left his home last May, and was in London for several weeks when the war broke out. He held the portfolio of agriculture in the state of Queensland for two years, and retired from the army with the rank of colonel, after 22 years of service. He has served a number of years as minister for justice and postmaster general.

"There was not the slightest menacing regarding an invasion from the air," he said, "and English people feel no anxiety on that score. There was a tremendous amount of enthusiasm when I was in London, and I saw queues after queues of young men lined outside the recruiting stations. The young 'silk-stocking' in a 'topper' and spurs waited his turn in the dust and bustle with the costermonger and shop hounds."
"The militant suffragette is a different person from the former defiant trouble maker, and has turned her attention to enlisting soldiers. She is considered the most efficient recruiting officer that London can boast of just now. The fighting parade and brick battles have disappeared altogether, and the attention of every one is engrossed in serving their country."

Financial Condition Better.
The financial situation of England has been saved from a frightful crash, Mr. Thynne thinks. "I have no words to express my admiration for the splendid way they met and handled this situation," he said. "They were on the brink of a precipice, and their financial downfall would have ruined the industries of other countries. The Bank of England was ordered to discount thousands of pounds of commercial paper. This step saved the situation."

"The patriotism of the colonies is beyond reproach, according to Mr. Thynne. Australia has sent 30,000 men to the front and put her entire navy in the hands of the king. 'Some of our soldiers are more patriotic than Englishmen,' he said. 'The greater part of them served in the South African war and are trained fighting men. England's colonies are helping her with might and main, and they realize that her strength is their strength. Kipling's verse, 'Daughter Am I in My Mother's House, but Mistress in My Own,' practically sums up the situation. When Great Britain calls, her foreign people answer and send of their best.'"
Australia has evolved a system of her own for the training of young men, and it has proved its worth, said Mr. Thynne. Boys from 10 to 21 years of age are required to go through a course of "military education." Every school, from the low grade to the highest, has some form of military training. The boys have drills and the man in the agricultural districts

"CHAMELEON" PAINT
F. J. Rankin of Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.
A paint recently brought out in Europe is called "chameleon" paint. It has been influenced to look its normal color returns. When this paint is applied to the iron work surrounding bearings, it is a visual indicator of the running condition of the machine. There are many possible applications in a variety of industries where this means of indicating a change in temperature would be valuable. It is claimed for this paint that the color change will always follow the temperature, no matter how many times the cycle is repeated.

IF BACKACHE OR KIDNEYS BOTHER
EAT LESS MEAT ALSO TAKE GLASS OF WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

The acid in meat cures the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy, the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys stop you must stop them. First, cut the body's urinous waste or you'll be a first class person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery, the kidney region may ache, from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach ache, sour tongue coated and you feel pneumatic bladders when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; when you get up, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will thank you. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithic acid, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.
Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble. Adv.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR
Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Thickness and Luster at Once

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair eventually dark and luxuriant; remove even bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, lasting about 60 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wynett's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.
While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wynett's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Adv.

NOTRE DAME TO GIVE YALE HARD FIGHT TOMORROW

BULLDOG CRIPPLED BY MANY INJURIES

Coaches Have Veteran 11 and Will Show Fast the Forward Pass

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL
CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Although football games of importance will be played all sections of the country on Saturday, the first inter-collegiate contest of the year between Yale and Notre Dame at New Haven will command the attention of gridiron enthusiasts. That the game will be a hard one is a foregone conclusion. The Yale team will be coached to the heights of perfection, and as this contest is one of the most important on the national schedule, nothing will be left undone to bring about the desired result.

The team which will represent Notre Dame will be practically a veteran aggregation. Only two players are missing from last year's team, which was one of the strongest football machines in the country. The team have been coached by players who are nearly as good as the coaches in all respects.

Coaches have been practicing since early in September. The team has been developed gradually, and the players are in the best of condition. The Yale team is expected to be a hard one to beat. The game is expected to be a hard one to win.

HOW HARVARD MAKES THE FORWARD PASS—HERE'S BIG MACHINE IN ACTION

This remarkable photograph shows the great Harvard football machine in action. It was taken at the opening game of the season, in which the Crimson trampled Bates under foot. Mahan (outlined) is shown at the extreme left. The arrow indicates the course of the ball going to Hardwick (also outlined). The frequent use of the forward pass and open play formation this season has caused a great outcry from Foster Sanford and other old timers, who say that American football is doomed. However, the spectators will undoubtedly find a most interesting game to watch this fall when the time for the big contest comes around.

'BEST SPIRIT THAT EVER SAW,' ROTHGEB

Coach and Tigers Sent to
Utah by Wildly Cheering
Bunch of Students

The old coach, Coach Rothgeb, admitted it and when he will admit almost anything, even that he is too sick to be on the field, then there is something doing. As the coach of Colorado college yesterday morning cheered the Tigers during their baptism of fire with Utah yesterday morning at Salt Lake, the big coach said:

"If the players have as much pep as the student body we will win. It was the best demonstration of spirit I ever saw at Colorado college."

The students got a big cheer and supplied the motive power, pulling the team to the station and giving the players a regular send-off.

Boulder-Aggie Game Saturday Important One

The principal conference game in Colorado tomorrow will be at Fort Collins between Colorado university and the Aggies.

Of these contests the Mines and Denver games will not rank as championship games as they are played without conference teams, but interest will be keen in the outcome as the games will give the first actual line of the eleven's play for 1914.

No definite reports have been obtainable on the Kearney Normal team thus far, but such reports as have been obtained from newspapers indicate that the eleven is a heavy one and well balanced.

Denver will miss Weinberg, who is out with a bad leg, but the team otherwise is shaping slowly but surely and will probably be enough advanced to make the battle a hard fought one.

FRESHMEN BEAT TERRORS IN ABBREVIATED BATTLE

High School Learns Valuable Lessons for Game With North Denver at Washburn Tomorrow

The Terrors received a young shock yesterday when the college freshmen handed them a drubbing to the tune of 7 to 0 in a game of seven-minute quarters. Rugged work on the Terror side and a tendency toward fumbling kept the work of the college crew and taught them a lesson that will be of value for their battle with North Denver at Washburn field tomorrow.

The freshman team is proving one of the strongest fledgling aggregations that the college has had in years, and gives great promise of material for next year. Harry Holman, captain, is the star of the youngsters, while Rice, Gilpe, Lendrum, Larson and the two Sheppards are playing great ball.

The Terrors are still uncertain about their lineup for the battle with North Denver tomorrow. The team will have a hard workout today, and at that time Coach Cogdill will select his players.

WESACKER, FORMER TIGER, FULLBACK FOR CHICAGO U.

Is Making Wonderful Records With Champion Maroons; Stagg Likes
His Playing

Wesley Acker, fullback for the championship Tiger team in 1910, is playing this position on the Chicago university team. Acker understudied last season and got into a few games, but this year he has been placed at fullback most of the time and probably will get the place.

Acker is a husky young individual, who hits the line like a bullet, and knows football. He is a brother of Dr. F. W. Acker of this city and of Ray Acker, a freshman at Colorado college. According to the outlook, he will be a member of the western conference championship eleven.

Coach Stagg of the Maroons likes the look of Acker's play, according to the Chicago Tribune, which says:

The fight was called off by the referee after the fourth round, on the ground that it was a fake. Dillon, who was arrested last night after the fight was called off, was released today on $1,000 bond.

Sox Win Chicago City Series, 3 to 2; Get Only 2 Hits

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—The Chicago American league club today won the final game of the series to decide the championship of Chicago when they defeated their National league rivals, 3 to 2. This is the fourth consecutive time that the American league has triumphed over the local Nationals. The series went the full seven games, the American leaguers winning three straight.

The American league came from behind and won the game on two hits. With the Nationals leading by two runs the Americans fought hard. Weaver started the fourth inning by getting a base when Berck tumbled his hard grounder. The next two men were retired easily on fly balls. Humphries could not locate the plate and Fournier drew a base on balls. Both caught a ball on the outside of the plate and doubled over first base, scoring Weaver and Fournier. Demmitt followed with a base on balls and Schalk singled to right center, scoring Roth. Vaughn then replaced Humphries and repaid the side after the damage had been done.

The total paid attendance was 14,876. The gross receipts were $3,321.25. Of this amount the national commission's 10 per cent was $332.12 and each club received $1,019.50.

UTAH FANS DISCOURAGED OVER OUTLOOK FOR TEAM

Coach Norgran Gives Secret Drill and Hopes to Get Team in Shape for Battle

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 15.—In preparation for the football game Saturday between the University of Utah and the Colorado college Tigers, Coach Nelson H. Norgran of the Utah eleven will hold secret practices every afternoon of this week. Coach Norgran is worried over the showing of his men in the recent games, and is worried more than ever over their evident indifference toward observing training rules. As a result, he is planning to hold late practices during the week and is determined to get his men into the best possible trim for the fray.

Deaf and Blind Team Beats Bay Freshmen

In a scrappy game the team of the Deaf and Blind school yesterday defeated the second freshman team of Colorado college on Washburn field. The score was 27 to 0. The freshman team was at a decided disadvantage in playing its first game of the season and showed the result of not having had much scrimmage work. Both teams played aggressively on offense, and showed up weak on defense. The game served to discover some good material among the smaller freshmen. Among them is Acker of Canon City, a brother of Dr. Frank Acker, former St. Louis University star. For the Deaf and Blind school the Aggie brothers were again the conspicuous stars. Another game between the two teams is expected to be played in the near future. The institute team is coached by Harry Black, old C. C. star, and A. L. Brown.

Carroll-Gilbert Bout Postponed

The return 14-round bout between Fighting Dick Gilbert of Denver and Sailor Carroll of San Francisco, scheduled at Ramona, October 20, has been postponed until October 27. This was the announcement of Promoter M. A. Schubert yesterday. The postponement was made upon the request of Gilbert. The Denver heavy desired a few more days in which to condition himself and give his injured hand time to mend. Schubert, also manager of Carroll, announces that the "sailor boy" is in training, and that he will be in even better shape than in the former battle with Gilbert, which the salt water boy won on points.

It is the plan now to form a central body with one member from each club on the executive board and delegates in proportion to the club membership to attend the annual convention of the association.

For weeks that has been the record. Motorists are paying, on the average, $930,000 weekly for this new-model HUDSON.

No other class car commands anywhere near such a sale. HUDSON output for September is five times a year ago. All because of the matchless attractions offered by this new-type Six.

Come and See Why
This HUDSON Six-40 stands today the most popular quality car in the world.

First, because Howard E. Coffin designed it as his finished ideal of a car. And Mr. Coffin has long been considered the leading American designer.

Second, because of its lightness. It is lighter than any other car that seats seven.

Third, because its new-type motor has reduced operative cost about 30 per cent.

Fourth, because of its beauty. It has scores of attractions which you never have seen in a car.

Fifth, because of its price. Never before has a high-grade car been sold for $1,550 f. o. b. factory.

Come now and see it. In the fall, when the new-year models all come out, is the time to pick out your new car.

HOMESTEADER DIES FROM SUDDEN HEART ATTACK

George Ausborn aged 54 years died at 22 East Huelfano street yesterday, following a sudden attack of heart failure. He was seated in his room with two men, W. A. Burnes and W. Simmons, when he collapsed. A doctor was summoned but the man was dead before he reached him. An investigation was held by Deputy Coroner P. A. Tiller at the D. F. Law undertaking rooms and he decided that an inquest was unnecessary. Ausborn was a homesteader in eastern El Paso county. He is survived by a brother, Robert.

Does your skin seem drawn and full of fine lines? The muscles need stimulating as do the skin glands. They should be built up now as a protection against the drying, chapping winds of the winter. We give the astringent mask treatment, that strengthens and hardens the muscles, increasing the circulation and stimulating the oil glands. Our wrinkle treatment eradicates the fine lines, gives a youthful, healthy appearance to the skin. We sterilize all instruments.

Commercial Club Given New Headquarters

Y.M.C.A. Also Planned in Colorado City

Colorado City probably will have a Y.M.C.A. in the near future, and ready plans have been completed for club house. The old Standard club house at the corner of Colorado avenue and Ninth street donated to the Y.M.C.A. by Charles MacNeill, several years ago, has been offered to the city for club purposes. President W. S. Everett of the Colorado City Commercial Club said yesterday that the building will be dedicated Tuesday, October 27. The building is well arranged for club purposes. It has a gymnasium and bowling alley and a reading room. In addition, there is a large room for special meetings. The use of the building has been free of charge and the club will have to pay only the light, water and heating charges. The Commercial club will hold meetings there and probably the Y.M.C.A. plans will be formulated in a few weeks.

CALUMET BAKING POWDER

The cook is happy, the other members of the family are happy, appetites sharpen, things brighten up generally. And Calumet Baking Powder is responsible for it all. For Calumet never fails. Its wonderful leavening qualities insure perfectly shortened, faultlessly raised bakes. Cannot be compared with other baking powders, which promise without performing. Even a beginner in cooking gets delightful results with this never-failing Calumet Baking Powder. Your grocer knows. Ask him.

"FOR" BETTER ROADS

MARK your ballot "for" better roads. If any community in Colorado has learned its lesson of good roads, it is the Pikes Peak Region. During the tourist season just ended, we reaped the profits of activities in road work that early last spring caused a few to scoff. Thousands of people came to the Pikes Peak Region because we advertised our roads, and, what is far more important, improved them.

What we need now is a network of roads throughout the state that will be an added attraction. Autoists can come to Colorado Springs and take trips covering the state. The Pikes Peak Region isn't selfish. We want all Colorado to have good roads. It will not only benefit this region, but every other region.

Colorado's present road fund is inadequate for its needs. It amounts to only $175,000, and when divided among sixty-two counties is entirely too small. The work mapped out by the State Highway Commission calls for about five times that amount.

The proposed bill at the coming election calls for a half-mill levy, bringing about $600,000 annually into the state fund. Of this the City and County of Denver will pay about $200,000. With such a fund as this it will be possible to eliminate every prohibitive grade in Colorado within three or four years and put in shape every mile of state highway. It means a great deal for Colorado and Colorado needs every little boost of this kind it can get.

VIRGINIA AND COLORADO

VIRGINIA, suh, has joined the prohibition crusade with a vengeance, returning a vote of 35,000 against the saloon. Therefore, public opinion is overwhelmingly dry. But Virginia is going to have problems in the enforcement of her prohibition laws, the solution of which will be more important than the new regulations themselves. Virginia, in story and in fact, has harbored in her mountain fastnesses the most notorious illicit liquor stills in the country. The Aliens and men of their ilk for years have flouted their traffic in the face of the revenue officers. Will they do the same to the state's officers?

Virginia can teach Colorado a lesson for the coming election in this state. The wet interests in Colorado are basing their hopes on Denver's vote. The surprising thing in Virginia's election was the fact that only three large cities, Richmond, Alexandria and Norfolk returned wet majorities. The Lynchburg News, commenting upon this fact says:

The contention generally relied upon by local option leaders, that the chief weakness of prohibition resides in the difficulty of enforcing the policy in communities whose public sentiment largely favors license, has just been rendered irrelevant by the cold logic of the election returns. From that source it develops that in no Virginia city does a decisively anti-prohibition sentiment prevail. Upon the contrary, the total city vote of Virginia shows a majority of 1488 against the licensed liquor traffic. Of the state's nineteen incorporated municipalities only three are included in the anti-prohibition column. Virginia's two largest cities, Richmond and Norfolk, which generally have been regarded as secure local-option strongholds, gave but feeble majorities for that policy. It is fair to state therefore, that both throughout the rural districts and in the larger centers of population prohibition has received a decisive measure of endorsement.

The same moth-eaten arguments as were used in Virginia are today being flouted in the face of the public in Colorado. Denver "business men" argue that if Denver should return a wet majority and the outside sections of the state bring in one in the dry column large enough to decide the state issue, then Denver would suffer because other cities were legislating for her. With the exceptions of a few coal mining districts, the wet leaders are basing their hopes for the defeat of the prohibition amendment upon the Denver vote. Pueblo is a matter of conjecture, but dry workers there expect a handsome majority for their cause. But in Denver, Billy Sunday's influence is being felt, and, as he phrases it, "The whiskey-soaked devils are on the run." The poolroom bets on the election are becoming more conservative every day. It is not only possible, but probable, that Denver will return a majority on November 3 in the dry column.

But take the question from the other angle. Why should the people of Colorado Springs allow the people of Denver to say that Ramona, the blot on El Paso county's map, should run wide open, turning out its quota of drunken bums on the streets of Colorado Springs at night?

If El Paso ever had a chance to cast a vote for a dry Colorado that would materially benefit El Paso county she has it this year.

PENROSEISM—ITS DECLINE

THE most significant political event of national importance during the last few weeks has been the repudiation of Senator Penrose, Pennsylvania's powerful Republican boss. Penrose leaders received a shock recently when distinguished Republicans from other states positively refused to go into Pennsylvania and speak for the candidacy of the man who wrecked and defeated their party in 1912.

Penrose is an outcast from his party. He can call on no national leaders to help him in his fight for reelection, and now he is dependent upon the men who are cogs in his state machine. Only those men benefited by Penrose's brand of commercialized politics are standing by him. Probably if his strength as a great national leader had not waned, and if his services were needed, the case would be different. Even the Democratic party can hold its nose and go out and fight for Sullivan of Illinois; and one or two Senators, the Postmaster General and the chairman of the national Democratic committee are going into Illinois to urge the voters to send a man to Washington who represents in the West what Penrose represents in the East.

Other states have told Pennsylvania what to do with Penrose and the voters are going to shelve him where he can harm party and public no longer.

ANOTHER COUNTRY HEARD FROM

WORD that Portugal has declared war on Germany is interesting but unimportant. In fact, this third-rate republic has been considered more or less of a joke in international affairs for many years. How Portugal can help the Allies is hard to determine. It is situated far out of the zone of conflict, occupies no strategical position, and has no navy and an army that does not compare in size or efficiency with that of Switzerland. This little nation, that lost a king because of a pretty dancer, and gained a president whom nobody knows, seems more like the school boy watching a street fight and anxious to get in but kept out because of his size.

Portugal's standing army is rated at 30,000, exclusive of troops in the African colonies. There are some 120,000 reserves and 200,000 available for duty (meaning the greater part of the male citizenship). Roumania's military strength is rated at three times that of Portugal.

The European war will be settled by land forces, and the navies are at a standstill until Germany can escape the blockade of the British fleet. With this in view Portugal takes no chances. It will not be invaded, because there is no invader. Spain is neutral and Portugal is therefore beyond the danger of land invasion. As a naval base Portugal's coast is too far away, either to aid an ally or to be subject to bombardment.

Portugal's chief concern, it seems, is her African colonies, which adjoin those of Germany. To protect these she is sending troops, in English transports, to Africa. Portugal cannot help Great Britain to any great extent, but Great Britain can help Portugal. Thus the declaration of war.

THE REAL PERJURERS AND CRIMINALS.

To the Editor of The Gazette:
A whisky ad in a Denver paper announces: "We think of the age agree that state prohibition tends to increase immorality, because it breeds sneaks, liars, hypocrites, perjurers and petty criminals."
Now as far as we have been able to reach these great thinkers, almost to a man, they were thinking without the least thought of this particular form of prohibition and positively deny that their words can be construed to favor the whisky contention. Is there anything honorable, anything honest, in taking a man's words out of the context and giving it a violent unintended interpretation? Is such a user of language less than a hypocrite and a thief? In preference, give me the word and the honor of the poor cause, who robs her roots.
Even if the language of the great thinkers warranted and were intended to warrant the interpretation of the whisky fanatic, in face of the records, what's the value of their testimony? Every observer capable of drawing a legitimate conclusion, knows that there is no more fallacious reasoning than that founded on great names naturally for they are spoken for their own time and home conditions. But great thinkers of the age agree that state prohibition tends to... How could they know? Where has state prohibition had a fair trial? Not in Maine, not in Georgia. Prior to the coming of Roosevelt the moral standards in our nations were so low, that in a contest between property and man, man had very little show, even in our highest courts. Our judges were, largely despots in the interest of property. Where property is concerned today juries are packed by political tools of capital, and judges are placed on the bench almost invariably by capital to sustain the injustice coined into capital-made laws.

If the angel recorder for Mainz was not a grifter, or an agent of illegitimate capital, here is his record: "A very large majority of the people (men) of the Pines tree state are by nature honest, honorable and industrious, but many are so under the hoodwink of capital and privilege that they are unconscious of their rights—the women (the heart and soul of Mainz) have no political power—the social and political leaders are grifters and lack principle—whisky men (small per cent of population) are selfish, dishonest, criminal lawbreakers, who spend money like water, to debauch, corrupt and betray the masses." Yours for statewide prohibition.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE AND MENTAL THERAPEUTICS.

To the Editor of The Gazette:
In your issue of October 13, under the caption "How to Keep Well," by Dr. W. A. Evans advice was given that "ill-balanced, self-centered, morbid people" needed mental therapeutics, and that they could get it from studying "Key to the Scriptures." Beyond doubt this is a reference to Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, the text book of Christian Science.

The inference that Christian Science is of value to "ill-balanced, self-centered, morbid people" is a reference which might be interpreted in several ways. If the medical critic who wrote the article for The Gazette is really sincere in the expression that Christian Science is of assistance to people of unbalanced minds, he is conceding more than materia medica has been inclined to grant in the past. On the other hand, if his statement is intended to convey the inference that Christian Science is available only for nervous and mental difficulties and for people on the verge of insanity he is very much mistaken.

Christian Science has proved its healing value not only in nervous and mental difficulties but for all functional and organic diseases. In fact there is practically no disease known to materia medica which has not been healed through the prayers of Christian Scientists.

The medical critic is further in error when he infers that Christian Science is a species of "mental therapeutics." Mental therapeutics is usually defined as the action of hypnosis or mental suggestion. In other words, it is one human mind acting upon another through will power. With this process Christian Science has absolutely nothing in common. Christian Science recognizes God as the divine Mind, and through knowing and understanding this Mind the healing is accomplished. This was the manner in which Jesus healed, who ever reflected the Infinite Mind, and consists in an exact, scientific understanding of God. The Apostle Paul referred to this spiritual healing and scientific unity with God when he said, "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus."

THE GERMAN VIEWPOINT.

To the Editor of The Gazette:
Dr. Friedmann's letter concerning Belgium in Tuesday's Telegraph is extremely interesting as an illustration of the point of view which is nearly universal among Germans, and which causes people of other races to choose death eagerly in preference to German domination a phenomenon which the Germans themselves are honestly unable to understand. That point of view may be expressed thus: Give up everything you value most in life, and we will allow you material comfort. Or, a maxim even more brief and sweeping, it pays to be feeble.

Evidently German standards have deteriorated since the days of the Goths and Vandals, who at least knew how to respect a brave enemy and despise a cowardly one.

The Eternal Balance

BY RUTH CAMERON

The Traveler-man had come back to take one of his periodical looks at "home." Now he was checking up old acquaintances with the Author-man and the Cynic.

"What's become of T—?" he asked.
The Author-man laughed. "Oh, he married and settled down long ago. He's worrying along with the rest of us, wondering if the high-water mark of income will ever reach up to the high cost of living."

"I worry," ejaculated the Traveler-man. "I can't imagine it. He was the happiest go-luckiest of all the old crowd."

"It's the inevitable result of increasing years and marriage," T—suspect, interjected the Cynic. "Why, Mrs. T— says he's become such a confirmed pessimist that if she wasn't an optimist she doesn't know where they'd be. She says she has to keep the family supplied with hope, faith if not charity."

"Have increasing years and marriage" made a pessimist of you, too?" asked the Traveler-man, turning to the Author-man.

The Author-man laughed. "No," he said. "I'm the optimist and my wife is the pessimist in our house."

"I rather think," he continued, "that there is usually an optimist and a pessimist in every well-regulated household. It is sort of a scheme of nature to maintain her adjustments."

"I pity T—," shrilly began the nature's paw. As you say, he was the happiest go-luckiest one of the crowd. The trouble is that he married a confirmed pessimist. No matter how far T— is an optimist, he's become such a confirmed pessimist that if she wasn't an optimist she doesn't know where they'd be. She says she has to keep the family supplied with hope, faith if not charity."

"In the old days we used to check T—'s optimism when it threatened to carry him too far beyond the bonds of common sense. We managed to keep him out of any amount of wild ventures. After T— married we expected he and his wife would go cheerfully and optimistically to utter ruin. What actually happened was that T— developed conservatism."

"Now we laugh at poor old T— as a confirmed pessimist. We do not realize that he is simply maintaining balance in his own home and doing it instinctively rather than consciously. He represents in his home the same element that the conservative wing represents in our political government: a sort of a check and opposition party to the other."

"I say he does it instinctively rather than consciously simply because I see it work out in other cases. In my own it was the 'Misanth' that, through her very pessimism, drove me to optimism. I had to balance her attitude toward life. I know of a number of other cases and I'll gamble that, marry off two optimists and one of them will become, if not a pessimist, at least the conservative wing of the family; or marry off two pessimists and one of them will become the optimist."

"What's the moral?" asked the Cynic. "The survival of the Most-fit or pity the pessimist?"

THE ZEPPELINS
War is a terrible thing, and we should be glad that the Zeppelins are not adding greatly to its horrors. For several years the world has shuddered when it thought of these giant war craft rolling silently through the heavens and dropping bundles of dynamite as big as haystacks upon their enemies. It was felt on all sides that when a Zeppelin got peevish at a nation and began blowing large, three-cornered holes in it, that nation would have to surrender before the overture was completed. It was believed that

"It was felt on all sides that when a Zeppelin got peevish at a nation, that nation would have to surrender."

one Zeppelin with a few stern officers aboard could reduce a fleet to unidentified remains, blow the dome off St. Pauls and make a noise like the Nihilist conventions in the vicinity of the czar's palace.

Happily these fears seem to have been greatly exaggerated. The Zeppelin has been mutilated. It may be large and stern looking, but it is not cantabile. Next to soaring aloft with a full charge of gas and blower, the Zeppelin seems to like best to come down to earth with a hollow thump and remain there permanently.

The Zeppelin is as long as a steamship, but when it is about in the thorax it has no more vitality than a duck. Europe seems to be full of marksmen who can take a small but vehement cannon and get enough Zeppelins for a mess with a few well-directed shots.

The horror of the dirigible seems to be visited strictly upon the heroes who have to go poking around the zenith in them without a parachute.

Many weeks have now elapsed since the giant Zeppelins were first unleashed upon the foe, and the capitals of Europe still stand. We are glad this is so. War is bad enough when conducted on foot. The sky should belong to the dove of peace. It is about the only place left for the poor bird anyway.

Belgians Can Now See Wisdom of Italy's Laws

ROME, Italy, via Paris, Oct. 15.—The Giornale d'Italia commenting on the situation created by France offering asylum at Havre to the Belgian government an action which it declares followed the Italian law giving guarantees to the pope, declares this fact shows that the law which worked so well in Rome during the last 45 years has been found to be perfect. By a curious coincidence, the newspaper continues, the Belgian cabinet accepting from France treatment equal to that enjoyed by the Holy See in Italy is a Catholic cabinet belonging to that party which in Belgium often has asserted that the pope has not the liberty nor the independence necessary to exercise his prerogative. In this tragic hour the heroic Belgian people recognize that the Italian law is a process of a liberal spirit because juridical sense and great political wisdom.

Zuppelli Appointment Causes Fear at Vienna

ROME, Italy, via Paris, Oct. 15.—The Messenger today published a telegram from Vienna which says that the appointment of General Zuppelli as Italian minister of war is causing some apprehension in the Austrian capital, the real being entertained at that General Zuppelli, who comes from Capo Distria, Austria-Hungary, will favor the joining of the province to Italy. It is rumored here that a special courier has left Vienna for Rome with an autograph, letter from Emperor Francis Joseph on the subject. In connection with the appointment of General Zuppelli it is recalled that when, during the reign of King Humbert, Signor Zanardelli was forming a cabinet he chose General Baratterli as minister of foreign affairs and that this industry was compelled to "disappear" chiefly because of the fact that General Baratterli came from Trent.

Swiss Are Protesting Against Restriction

LONDON, England, Oct. 15.—Reuters Telegram company has received a dispatch from Berne, Switzerland, by way of Amsterdam, in which it is related that Switzerland is beginning to feel the restrictions on contraband and Swiss newspapers are complaining bitterly of Great Britain's attitude concerning the importation of British goods through Germany. Swiss importers, the dispatch continues, have made urgent representations to the federal council and to the British minister at Berne asking them to use their influence at London to facilitate the entry into Switzerland of raw materials and raw wool that a crisis in the Swiss industrial world may be averted.

TREATMENT OF WHOOPING COUGH

The average child with whooping cough does not get any treatment. If he is kept in a properly ventilated, clean, sunny room, protected from extremes of heat and cold, properly clad and properly fed, there is not much use of treatment.

However, that is not the reason he does not get it. A whooping cough, strangling, vomiting child is so pitiful that the parents would have him treated if they could see where it did any good.

There are a hundred treatments for whooping cough. They range from burning the small ulcer under the tongue to soaking the feet in hot water. As with home colic, a hundred cures mean no cure.

There being no cure, it follows that the average case gets no treatment, which means that more than half the whooping cough cases are not seen by physicians, which means that half the cases are not registered at the health department, which means more whooping cough.

Among the drugs used by physicians treating whooping cough are belladonna, antipyrin, bromides, iodoform, chloral and quinine.

Some of these are given persistently throughout the disease for some supposed effect on the disease itself. Some are used from time to time to meet symptoms which are threatening or annoying.

The evidence is that drugs to meet symptoms as they arise are of some value. Drugs given persistently for some supposed effect on the disease itself do not show results.

Within recent years the bacillus of whooping cough has been discovered. At the present time vaccines for whooping cough are under trial. Some of the preparations are made from cultures of the whooping cough bacillus grown for the purpose in central laboratories. Some are made at the time of treatment from bacteria taken from the patient himself. The first group are called stock vaccines, the second autogenous vaccines.

Dr. Hartshorn and Moeller have reports on 1,500 cases treated by vaccines. They think the vaccine treatment has some value. The earlier it is given the more value it has. They think the vaccine should be given in large doses than has been the custom. They say it is harmless, there is no danger in using it. The authors conclude by saying that they suggest, but do not recommend, its use.

The vaccine treatment is along the right line. The cure for whooping cough will be found in that direction. But it is not perfected yet.

There is nothing of the phenomenal change that immediately follows the use of diphtheria antitoxin nor the certain effect that follows typhoid vaccine.

We must remember that in the case of typhoid vaccine a trifling change of method as changing the heating point four degrees converted the indifferent success of the earlier typhoid vaccines to the brilliant success of the present product.

HOW TO GAIN FLESH

G. S. I. writes: "I am a boy of 17 and I would like to know how I can gain about 15 pounds in the shortest time possible. I am normal in height, but below normal in weight."

REPLY:
Eat plenty of meat, bread, vegetables and fruit. Exercise in the open air. By this plan your muscles should

ENLARGED SPLEEN

Mrs. M. K. writes: "Will you please tell me what a spleen is?"

REPLY:
The spleen is a small organ located on the left side of the body, under the edge of the ribs. It occupies the same position on the left side of the body as the liver does on the right. Being smaller, it does not reach so far to the front. It is a blood filter. The blood is poured through it and, as it passes, is acted upon.

There are certain diseases characterized by great enlargement of the spleen. For instance, in chronic malaria the spleen is greatly enlarged, and the patient sometimes says that he has a spleen, meaning that his spleen is large enough to be felt. Enlargement of the spleen is due to different causes, and the cure of a given case depends on the cause of that case.

FIND OUT SICKNESS

Mrs. B. writes: "I have been bothered with dysentery for a year. I have a bad breath and am nervous, but I don't want to lose in weight. Would you advise a change to the Pacific coast?"

REPLY:
Nothing is to be gained by going to the Pacific coast. If you are correct in your diagnosis you are infected with amoeba in all probability. This calls for treatment with emetine. If you have a periodic diarrhoea from indigestion you need a change in diet and other treatment.

Go after what ails you. Shoot at the bull's eye. To change climate for your trouble is to shut your eyes and pull the trigger.

NOT TOO LATE

Mrs. C. M. L. writes: "I am 36 years old and have had 13 children. The last one came four years ago. The baby was presented wrong and was born so, causing great suffering. I was lacerated and the doctor in attendance did nothing for me at that time. Is it too late now to have the work done? I know I would be better off could it be remedied. Otherwise I enjoy good health."

REPLY:
No. It is not too late.

RUPTURE IN BABY

J. H. writes: "What is cause of rupture in boy less than a year old? What do you think of circumcision? What is indicated by baby now 4 months old that has been holding his head up and trying to sit up ever since birth?"

REPLY:
1. Straining—possibly violent crying.
2. Frequently advisable, sometimes necessary.
3. Nothing. Do not encourage him in his efforts.

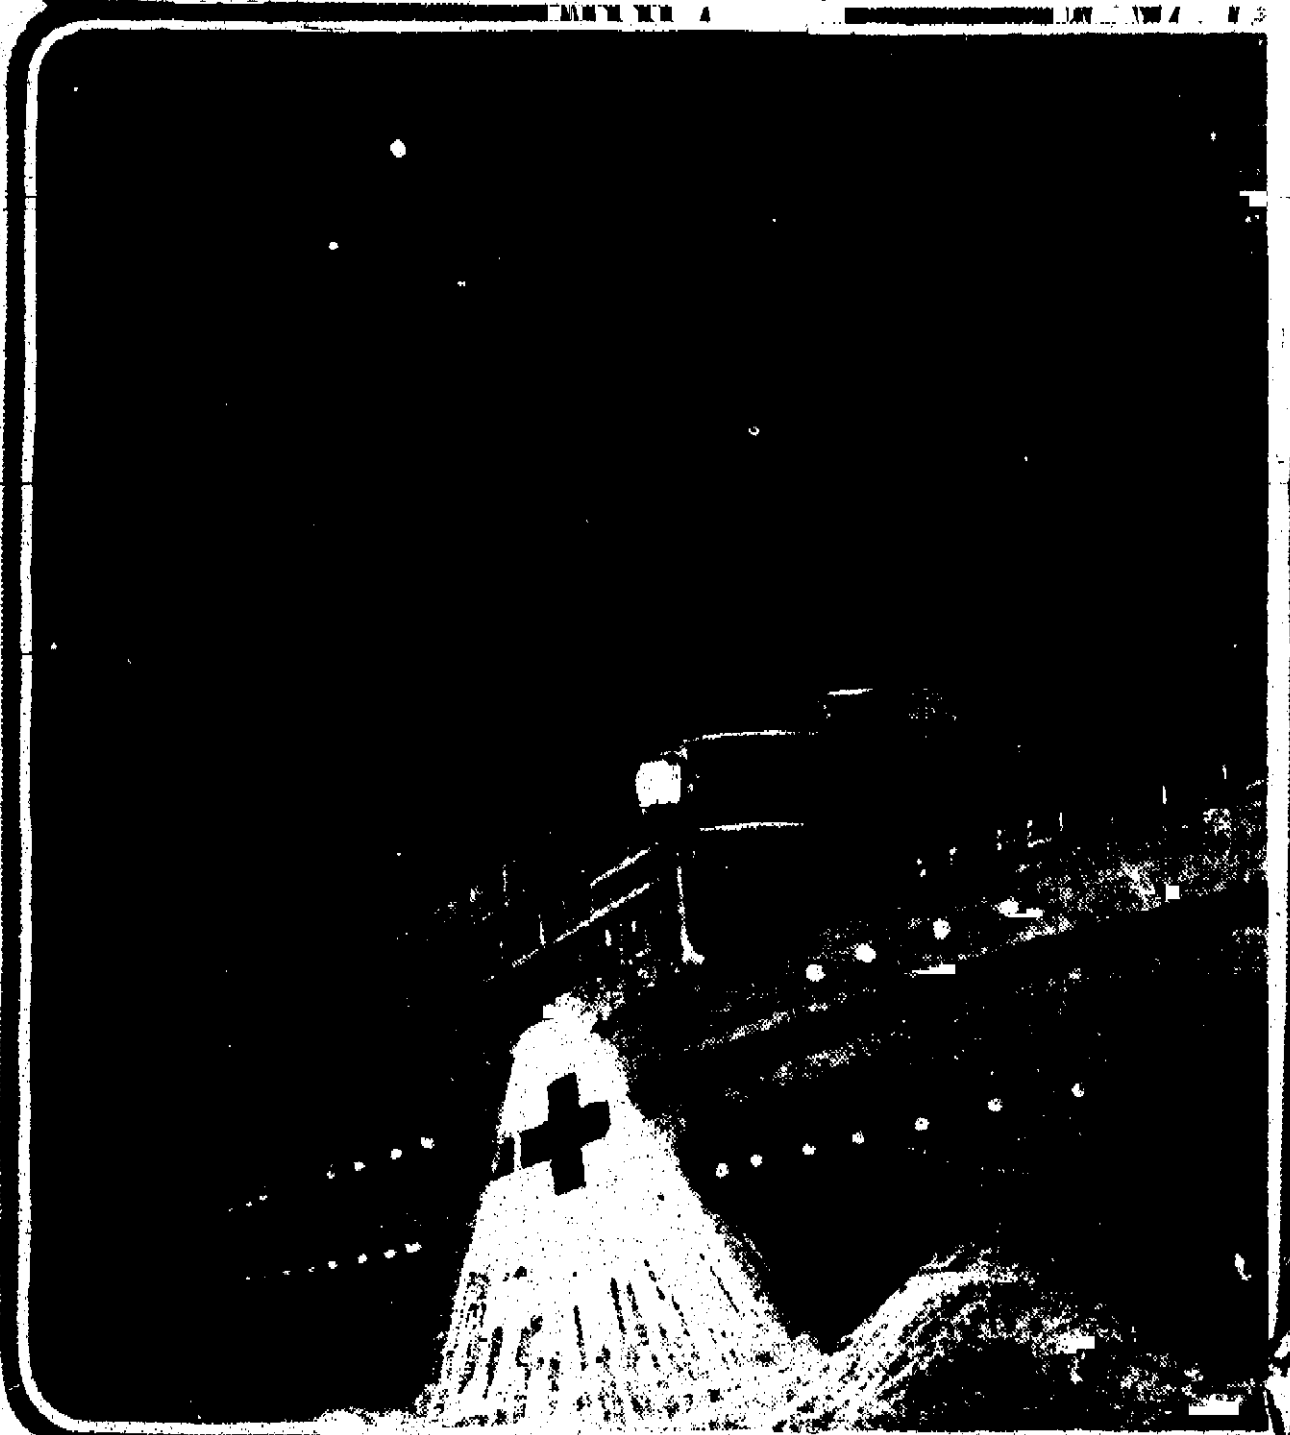

DANGER IS SLIGHT

Subscriber writes: "Please instruct us of the importance of disinfecting the telephone mouthpiece for the prevention of consumption and other contagious diseases."

REPLY:
It is all right to wash out the mouthpiece with soap and water once a week. However, this is largely for aesthetic reasons.

The California board of health has shown that the danger from telephone mouthpieces is small.

Hospital Ships Plowing Way Through Darkness to England

This picture, reproduced from a sketch by a wounded British officer, shows a hospital ship ploughing its way through the darkness of the channel on its way back to England. A red cross, similar to that shown on the right, is painted on the left side of the steamer. The searchlights are brilliantly lit during the night in order that no warship shall mistake the vessel for a hostile craft. The steamer is loaded with British wounded during the fighting in France.

Battle Between Southampton and Three German Cruisers Vividly Told by One of Crew

(Special Dispatch by the International News Service.)

LONDON, Oct. 15.—A noncommissioned officer in the dragoons has sent to a relative a fine description of the work being done by British cavalry.

"All our men, in fact, the whole British army, are as fit as a fiddle, and the lads are as keen as mustard," he says. "There is no holding them back. At Mons we were under General Thiebauld, and horses and men positively flew at the Germans, cutting through much heavier points and heavier men than ours. The yelling and the dash of the lancers and the dragon guards was a thing never to be forgotten. We lost very heavily at Mons, and it is a marvel how some of our fellows pulled through and positively frightened the enemy. We did some terrible execution and our spirits were feeling the strain of heavy riding before sunset. With our tanks unimpaired, we had the full use of our light arms for attack and defense."

"After Mons I went with a small party scouting and we again engaged about 200 cavalry, cut off from their main body. We killed nine, wounded six and gave chase to the remaining five, who, in rejoicing their unit, nearly were the means of trapping us. However, our men dispersed and hid in a wood until they fell in with a squadron and so reached camp in safety. After that a smart young corporal accompanied me to reconnoiter, and we went too far ahead and were cut off in a part of the country thick with hedges. As we rode two wounded men came limping along, both with legs damaged, one from the Middlesex and the other Lancashire fusiliers, and so we took them up."

Cure of Village Hid Them.

"Corporal Watkinson took one behind his saddle and I took the other. The men were hungry and tattered to shreds with fighting, but in fine spirits. We soon came across a small village, and I found the cure a grand sportsman and full of pluck and hospitality. He seemed charmed to find a friend who was English, and told me that the Germans were dressed in the uniforms of British soldiers, which they took from the dead and from prisoners in order to deceive French villagers, who in many places in that district had welcomed these wolves in sheep's clothing. We were warned that the enemy would be sure to track us to the village. The cure said he would hide the two wounded men in the crypt of his church and put up beds for them. It has a verret trap door and was an ancient treasure house of a feudal lord, whose castle we saw in ruins at the top of the hill close by."

"Then he hid away our saddlery and uniforms in the roof of the barn and insisted upon our making a rest chamber of the tower of his church, which was approached by a ladder, which we were to pull up to the belfry as soon as we got there. He smuggled in wine, food and bread and cakes, fruit and cigarettes, with plenty of bedding pulled up by a rope. We slept soundly and the night seemed the only one of our lives that we had passed in peace. Our horses he had placed in different stables a mile apart, and put French 'fitings' on them, so as to deceive the enemy. He thinks we are well away from the main body of the German army moving in the direction of Paris, but will not hear of our leaving here for at least three days. But I cried: 'Cure, we are dragoons! no—saviors, saviors, you have rescued France from the torments of slavery.'"

"However, we have now secured complete disguises as French cultivators—baggy corduroy trousers, blue shirts, boots, stockings, belt, hat, cravat, everything to match—and, as we have not shaved for two weeks, and are bronzed with the sun, I think that the corporal and myself can pass anywhere as French peasants, if only he will leave all the talking to me. One thing I must tell you."

"The two wounded soldiers don't wish us to leave them, because I am interpreter, and not a soul speaks English in the village. So we have explained to the cure that we shall stay here until our comrades are able to walk, and then the party of four will push our way out somewhere on horseback and get to the coast. The cure said at once offered to be our guide, and it is arranged that we take a carriage wagon, which travels in this district, and drive our own horses in it, and pick up two additional mounts at a larger village on the way to the coast."

"We must get back as soon as ever we can. Nothing could be kinder than the people here, but this is not what we came to France for, and hanging about in a French village is not exactly what a soldier calls 'cricket.'"

14 Hours Sleep in 10 Days.

"You cannot imagine how complete the Germans are in the matter of rapid transport. Large automobiles, such as the railway companies have for towns round Harrogate and Scarborough, built like char-a-bancs, carry the soldiers in batches of 50, so that they are as fresh as paint when they get to the front. But in point of numbers I think one of our side is a fair match for four of the enemy. I hope that the British public are beginning to understand what this war means. The German is not a toy soldier, but a bloodhound, absolutely thirsty for blood."

"Corporal Watkinson of the Ninth lancers, in a letter to a friend, describes the action in which the cavalry took part on August 24:

"This last two weeks," he says, "we have had it very hard. For the last 10 days we have had about 14 hours sleep, and, of course, we do not feel up to much. We had a terrible day last Monday week, when we charged the German guns. We were under heavy shell fire for five hours, and could not move. The longer we stayed trying to get cover the more guns worked round our flanks. We were in a real death trap, and I thought my last day had come. It was hell on earth. We had nothing to do but to run the gauntlet three times. During those few hours I had four different horses, each being shot under me, but I escaped without a scratch."

A member of the crew of H. M. S. Southampton, which played such a valiant part in the fight of Heligoland, writes to his parents as follows:

"We started the first thing in the morning when we had a brush with two destroyers. It was misty and they were practically invisible, but I believe they were hit twice before disappearing in the mist. After that we turned and steamed out of it, but were recited by an urgent wireless message from one of our ships which was in difficulty. Of course the ship was immediately turned, and we proceeded at full speed to the scene of operations."

Five Shells Every 10 Seconds.

"The enemy turned out to be a three-funnelled cruiser, somewhat larger than we. We immediately opened fire at a range of 10,000 to 12,000 yards. The enemy replied and steamed away from us, but eventually we ran parallel."

"Things began to look lively, as we were putting shells into her at the rate of five every 10 seconds, and six-inch shells at that. The shells have a terrible effect, and fumes from them kill anyone within a range of 60 yards while they set on fire everything near them. Presently she was seen to be on fire, and a few minutes afterwards a beautiful plume of shell plume told us of her fate. All amidships was blown a raging fire, and the cod came when her mainmast went to the board. We immediately ceased fire and altered our course, going close to her."

"My! what a sight she was! Two fire amidships had made two of the funnels red hot, and flames and smoke were pouring out of them. Her port side was like a sieve. Every gun was smashed and bent, some looking round corners, some on their sides—in fact, her whole upper deck was chaos."

"The fore bridge was a tangled mass of ironwork while the wire stays from the foremast were singing in the air. What she was like inside, heaven alone knows."

"We passed within 200 yards of her, and the only living beings on the upper deck were one man on the quarter-deck and what looked like a couple of officers standing under what had been the fore bridge. Many of them had jumped overboard, and, of course, were rescued, but these only totaled seven officers and 79 out of a crew of 400 or 500."

Defeated Three in Hour.

"After this heavy firing was heard ahead and we shot off again. The enemy this time was another cruiser similar to the previous one, and, steaming in line, we repeated the operation, only she blew up and sank before anyone could be saved. While this was going on another ship approached and gave us a broadside, which was replied to with interest, to the effect that she left suddenly for a previous appointment in a sinking condition. It is believed, and in flames. This makes three ships in about one hour's actual fighting."

"After this we shot away out of the danger zone and proceeded to home and safety. When we came in all the ships manned the side and cheered like madmen."

CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Selling pressure from a number of leading firms acted as a more than offset in wheat today for Americans that a big business was in progress on a big scale. There was an unsettled close at 4 1/2 net decline. Corn finished 1/2¢ to 3/4¢ net down; oats, off 1/4¢ to 3/4¢, and provisions, ranging from the same as last night to loss of 1/4¢.

Orders to sell flour in the wheat market as soon as prices at the opening showed a tendency to advance. Much of the unloading came from speculators who bought in yesterday's upturn and who had become sceptical in regard to going the export transaction, were being compelled to a much greater extent than was generally supposed. The ensuing fall in prices was followed by two strong rallies due to seaboard estimates that European buying today at 100,000 bushels, Chicago and in the south-east amounted to from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 bushels. The effect, however, failed to last, as the figures for the most part could not be confirmed.

December delivery of wheat showed decided relative strength compared with the May option. It is thought were sold at one time and to the disadvantage under May, against 6¢ at the close last night.

Prospects for better weather tended to ease off the corn market. Country offerings remained small, but the majority of traders were expecting a material enlargement of the crop movement soon. That a good deal of resistance to bear prices, as corn shipping demand continued good. The market, nevertheless, gave evidence of some sympathy with the weakness of other grain.

Packers buying raised hay after an early morning rally, but it was paying to a decline in the prices of hogs. Pork and ribs lacked support, however, and seemed unable to rebound.

COTTON SITUATION

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The only fresh developments reported in cotton circles here today with reference to the liquidation of the old contract interest were cables from Liverpool announcing that the price of January and February there would be reduced to 4 1/2 and 4 3/4 respectively, and that the margins deposited in local banks in Liverpool account. According to the old contract agreement between the two markets, such margins were not to be released until contracts had been actually liquidated, but it is supposed that Liverpool was attempting to collect all funds possible before the termination of the British moratorium, November 4.

Reports of frost in northwest Texas seemed to attract comparatively little attention, but local wheat dealers said their offers from the interior was a shade firmer today, particularly on the western side, owing partly to the reports of progress with the proposed $100,000 in financial aid.

Local cotton spots, firm, 6 1/2¢, sales, 3,000.

FINANCIAL SITUATION

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Reduction in the rate for call money from 4 to 3 per cent was the most significant financial development today. The higher rate was a reflection of the war, and a breakdown of the war, and has prevailed since that time for most day-to-day loans. Large amounts were placed at the reduced rate and some relaxation of long-time maturities naturally followed.

Foreign exchange was stronger as the direct outcome of a call to participants in the recent New York city $100,000,000 note issue for payment of another installment. The time in exchange was attended by a shipping bill of lading to Ottawa by the banking syndicate.

The cut in the Amalgamated Copper company's quarterly dividend from $1.50 to 50 cents was in line with general expectations and a logical sequel of the recent speculative liquidation made by the Anaconda Copper Mining company. Further sales of copper metal at the low figure quoted last week were announced, with indications of more curtailment of production. Pittsburgh advices suggested a continued dropping of prices for finished iron and steel.

A MADE IN GERMANY CAMPAIGN

Ambrose Gerard Will Do All His Electioneering From Berlin.

From the New York Evening Post.

James W. Gerard, the New York Democratic nominee for United States senator, proposes to conduct a campaign for his election which will be unique in American politics. He proposes not to say a word.

Mr. Gerard feels that he has no right to forsake his present duties as ambassador to Germany in order to further his ambitions at home. Accordingly, he notified his friends when they put him in the field by circulating designating petitions that he would not forsake his present post to come home and go on the stump.

It was with this understanding that Mr. Gerard's backers went ahead, and nominated him. They felt that he had an endearing himself to Americans by what he had done toward getting American refugees out of Germany when the war commenced that he would not need to appeal personally to the voters of New York state.

Mr. Gerard's position at Berlin is a peculiarly delicate one. He has to take extreme care to maintain the strict neutrality of the United States, as represented by him, and yet he has to look out for the interests of citizens of all the powers at war with Germany who may appeal to him for assistance.

Mr. Gerard has no intention of leaving his present post before next February at the earliest. If hostilities still continue then his friends say that he may not come home to take his seat in the senate if he is elected, but will stick to his job until he is through with it. This has raised the question of whether Mr. Gerard would not have to be here to qualify when Congress meets next March. There seems to be no precedent for such a case.
